PAUL K. LONGMORE: HISTORIAN, ACTIVIST, TEACHER, 1946-2010

We will mark the event with the Inaugural Longmore Lecture followed by a reception with light hors d'oeuvres.

The 2014 Annual Longmore Lecture in Disability Studies: Alison Kafer

"Crip Relations: Critical Disability Studies Now"

If disability is largely experienced in relation -- to other people, to buildings and other structures, to histories and practices -- how might we understand the many complex relations with feminist, queer, or critical race and ethnic studies?

ALISON KAFER is Associate Professor and Chair of the Feminist Studies program at Southwestern University, where she also teaches courses in the Environmental Studies and Race and Ethnic Studies programs. She is the author of Feminist, Queer, Crip (Indiana UP, 2013).

We are eager to make this an accessible event!

Please refrain from wearing scented products so that people with chemical sensitivities can join us. For other accommodation requests, contact Emily Beitiks by March 1, 2014: 415-405-3528 or beitiks@sfsu.edu.
